

Lloyd Strom, 73

3-7-96

Lloyd C. Strom, 73, Groton, died Tuesday, Feb. 27, 1996, at Colonial Manor, Groton. His funeral was held Saturday, March 2, at the United Methodist Church, Groton, with the Rev. Dean Trapp officiating. Burial was at Groton Union Cemetery under the direction of Paetznick-Garness Funeral Chapel, Groton.

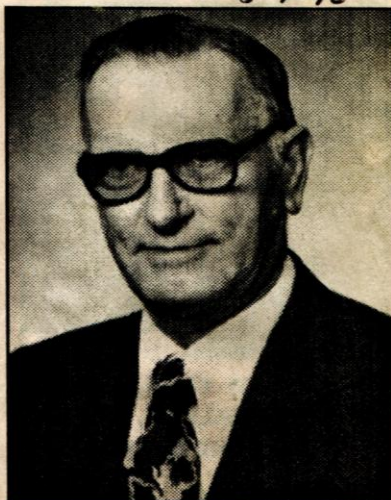

Lloyd Charles Strom was born October 3, 1922, to Charles A. and Hulda (Johnson) Strom at Groton. He grew up in Groton and attended Groton Public Schools. He married Doris Eastwick at Groton September 15, 1945. They made their home on a farm in East Hanson Township.

Strom was a farmer and was well known as a cattleman. He enjoyed farming and his many business ventures with local and west river cattle associates.

Strom was a member of the United Methodist Church, Groton, where he served on various church boards. He served on the East Hanson Township board, the Groton School board, and the First National Bank board. He was a member of the Northcentral Livestock Feeders.

He and his wife moved into Groton and enjoyed winter vacations in Phoenix before ill health forced him to retire. He has been a resident of Colonial Manor for the past four years.

Strom is survived by his wife, Doris, Groton; a son, Alan and Vickie Strom, Groton; four brothers, Carl and Clarence Strom, Groton; Glen Strom, Osseo, Minn.; and Donald Strom, Brooklyn Park, Minn.; three sisters, Alice Weiph, Chicago; Lorraine Bartz, Groton; and Mrs. Richard (Doris) Zoellner, Groton; two grandson, Nicholas and Jackson Strom, Groton.

Strom was preceded in death by his parents, a brother and five half-brothers.

Casketbearers were Jon Anderson, Loren Enger, Art Gengerke, Terry Merkel, Charles Strom and Richard Strom.

Honorary casketbearers were Alvin Abeln, Sam Aeilts, Dewayne Burton, Bryce Butler, Jerroll Erdmann, Harvey Fliehs, Sr., Douglas Holler, Dewayne Holm, Ray Johnson, Robert Johnson, Harlan Manguson, Jack Oliver, Maurice Olson, Harry Pharis, Jr., Orville Schaller and Robert Snyder.

Arlis Doeden was the organist. Special music was by Stanley Boe. Jay Johnson and Marc Johnson were the ushers.